

DOMAINE DE LA FOLIE BOURGOGNE ALIGOTÉ

Folie sits on the crown of the Montagne de la Folie, occupying the northernmost zone of the Rully appellation and its highest elevations. Moreover, all but one of the domaine's vineyards are monopoles, which is all but unheard of along the Côte. It has been in Clémence Durelle's family for three centuries and since 2010, when she assumed the reins, completely reinvigorated.

VINEYARD

- Site: The Folie Mountain lines the eastern side of the Bouzeron hollow, famous for Aligoté. Were Clémence a ball player, she could practically throw a baseball from the Aligoté vineyard down over the hill into Bouzeron. Folie's vines grow in the Clos la Folie vineyard.
- Soil: Clay-limestone.
- Vines: From two parcels just under 2 acres; the larger parcel was planted in 1947 and the smaller one in 1973. North-northeast exposure. No herbicides or pesticides.
- Varieties: Aligoté.

CELLAR

- Vinification & Aging: No wood here—raised entirely in tank. No SO2 additions during vinification and aging.
- Production: 8,000 six-pack cases.
- Profile: Decidedly classical with fresh fruit and clear minerality.
